

Complaint

Two knights in a forest. It's early in May. Bright sunlight filters through the leaves. A damsel in distress is weeping quietly. One of the knights has abducted this damsel. The other is her lover. The knights are fighting. Her lover wins. But the problem is that the damsel in distress has already been raped. The knight, her lover, is greatly distressed. How can he marry her? He grieves bitterly.

Suniti Namjoshi