

- Guest, Iain. Behind the Disappearances: Argentina's Dirty War Against Human Rights and the United Nations. Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1990.
- Lechner, Norbert. "Some People Die of Fear: Fear as a Political Problem." Fear at the Edge: State Terror and Resistance in Latin America. Ed. Juan E. Corradi et al. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1992.
- Malamud-Goti, Jaime. Game Without End: State Terror and the Politics of Justice. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1996.
- Nordstrom, Carolyn. "The Backyard Front." The Paths to Domination, Resistance and Terror. Eds. Carolyn Nordstrom and JoAnn Martin. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1992.
- Ocampo, Luis Moreno. "Beyond Punishment: Justice in the Wake of Massive Crimes in Argentina." Journal of International Affairs 52 (2) (Spring 1999): 669-689.
- Sieff, Michelle and Wright, Leslie Vinjamuri. "Reconciling Order and Justice? New Institutional Solutions in Post-Conflict States." Journal of International Affairs 52 (2) (Spring 1999): 757-779.
- Simpson, John and Bennett, Jana. The Disappeared and the Mothers of the Plaza: the Story of the 11,000 Argentinians Who Vanished. New York: St. Martin's Press, 1985.
- Stein, Janice Gross. "Image, Identity, and Conflict Resolution." Managing Global Chaos: Sources and Responses to International Conflict. Eds. Chester A. Crucker et al. Washington: U. S. Institute of Peace Press, 1996.

Brazil, 2009. Photo: Xochitl Rubio

CAROLYNE VAN DER MEER

Train

The hills roll and stretch and I wonder at their goldenness turning to green I see the houses the barns the cows the trees flip by as we gather momentum and it looks like a green grey brown blue sea of never-ending images crowding my vision whip by at breakneck speed so vividly blurry it is too real to be real and my thoughts follow the scene changes galloping from moment to moment I am unable to focus on any one thing for longer than a few seconds it is all a blur of green grey brown blue thoughts aching to organize themselves into a pattern of recognition trying to sync up somehow with what I am seeing pass by as I look out

Carolyn Van Der Meer has been working as a journalist and editor for many years and has written for more than 60 publications including The Montreal Gazette, Communication World, Montreal Review of Books, subTerrain, Quill & Quire and the Literary Review of Canada, among others.